

Barrel-Aged Cashew Feni

Sentari Continues Its Winning Streak: Gold for NILA, Silver for BHUMI at the London Spirits Competition 2026

Goa, India, 22.04.2026

Award-winning cashew spirit brand Sentari has once again secured international recognition at the prestigious London Spirits Competition 2026, reaffirming its position as a pioneer in redefining India's heritage spirit. This year, Sentari NILA was awarded a Gold Medal, while Sentari BHUMI received a Silver Medal, marking another milestone in the brand's journey of crafting refined, barrel-aged feni for a global audience.

This recognition builds on Sentari's previous success: Sentari Limited Edition had already secured a Gold Medal in 2025, establishing an early benchmark for quality and innovation in the category.

Crafted in Goa using traditional methods and aged with precision, Sentari's expressions are part of a new wave of Indian spirits that honour origin while elevating experience. Each new batch, such as NILA and BHUMI, reflects a distinct character shaped by time, wood, and the nuances of cashew.

"We have always believed feni deserves a place on the world stage, not as a curiosity, but as a serious, sipping spirit," says Sentari Founder Karun Sanghi. "These awards validate not just our work, but the potential of Goa's cashew spirit when treated with care and intention."

The London Spirits Competition evaluates entries based on quality, value, and packaging, making it one of the most holistic and respected platforms in the global spirits industry. With back-to-back wins and growing international recognition, Sentari continues to lead the movement of positioning feni as a premium, globally relevant spirit.
